If now the handle be turned at the same speed as it was when the message was being recorded, the steel point will follow the line of impression. and will vibrate in periods corresponding to the impressions previously produced on the fail by the point of the receiving apparatus. Vibrations of the requisite number and depth being thus communioated to the paper diaphragm, there will be produced precisely the same sounds that in the first instance were required to produce the impressions formed on the tin-foll. Thus the words of the speaker will be heard issuing from the conical drum in his own voice tiuged, however, with a slight metallic or mechanical tone. If the cylinder be revolved more slowly than when the message was being recorded the voice assumes a bass tone; if more quickly, the message is given with a childish treble. Those variations coour according as the vibrations are more or less frequent. In the present unchine, for recording a long message as soon as one strip of the tin foll is filled, it is removed and redated by others until the communication has been completed. In using the machine for the purpose of correspondence the metal strips are removed from the cylinder and sent to the person with whom the speaker desires to correspond, and who must possess a machine similar to that used by the sender. The person receiving the apparatus, applies the transmitter, and puts the bylinder in motion, when he hears his friend voice speaking to him from the indented metal. And he can repeat the contents of the missive as

The attention of owners, agents, and charterers of steamers is drawn to the provisions of The Post Office Ordinance, 1876, which comes into force on the 23rd instant. Under the old Ordinance no notice was required of the departure of a vessel if not advertised, nor of departures for Canton or Macao. Notice is now required of any departure, though with regard to sailing ships, the old rule will practically remain in force, that notice need not be sent unless asked for Section XXV: requires that the first notice be ula of the sent to the Post Office.

EXTRACTS. MARRIAGE BELLS.

BY THE AUTHOR OF "THE HARVEST OF A QUIET BY Ring out, O marriage cadence rarel Ring out into the world ! Now, flag-like, opening in the air, Now, fing-like, shut and furled - And all the while there meets your tone

Pass on, o'or flowers thickly fall.

I ratch an Echo in their tone.

" An echo from the distance thrown.

Proud Groom and happy Bride : Through amiling provide - a double wall Sat up the graves to hide; And all the while the Bells ring on, With schoes from the distance thrown. Drive off, into the wonder-state Of the new wonder-life; Lorr dalous, reiterate "Husband!"--atrange word--and "wife!" And sweetly while the Bells peal on

Then let the strangeness pass: the love Deepon, as years steal by, As Spring's young laughter leaves the grove Half and that it must dio: And through the Bells, with faintest long, The echo-answer still rings on:

Then joy in the full leafy dome, Not torn by every breeze; And watch the bits of heaven that come Between the swaying trees. -How earnestly the Bells ring on ! -How full swells up the echo-tone !

or those ansattling strains and wild Coos the contented dove: Or, if it panso, that music mild, The silonce tells of love: Hush! hark! with what a tender tone Those old Bells answer one by one!

Now years the starry blossoms bring. The graver wood to greet ; I see that emerald had of Spring Gather about its feet: -Wilh laugh of children, blithe in tone, .The esho-bills peal on, peal on!

Widons the blue above : Sadly, though still the nest is there. She droops, the mateless dove : -Ah. Bells I had all been once foreshown In that deep pathos of your tone?

-But lo! one day the woodman's care

Yet tender memories thickly spring. Where the wood light bare: The young are stirring neath her wing, And the sweat flowers are there: There is a music in their moan, While the old Bells keep sobbing on.

-- Why, dear? Nay, fie upon the Bolls That come our eyes to dim; -Now greetings full :- now low farewells ; The songs of Secaphim; Oh, their pathetic, merry done!

Well, those are gone : nor let us stay, But, while the glad larks sing, , Take thankfully our homeward way, And leave the Bolls to ring : Glad; for our Bells have never done : Their echo-music still rings on.
